'MIRACLE MOLECULE' SUPERCHARGES CIRCULATION, PROMISING BETTER BLOOD FLOW, BLOOD PRESSURE AND INCREASED MENTAL CLARITY & STAMINA!

Are you concerned with high blood pressure or cholesterol, a lack of stamina and energy, a dip in libido and physical performance, or the increase of "senior moments?" The answer to living without these health concerns has been discovered in what scientists are calling the most important health breakthrough of our time. The discovery starts with nitric oxide (N-O)!

OVER 40 LOSING CRUCIAL RESERVES

N-O is a natural substance produced by the body that has amazing effects on health and circulation. The American Heart Association published one of many studies showing that many people over 40 don't produce enough N-O. In fact, your body produces less than half of what it did at 20.

NOBEL PRIZE WINNING DISCOVERY

Three researchers received the prestigious Nobel Prize for this discovery. One of the winners says, "There may be no disease process where this miracle molecule does not have a protective role".

GOOD NEWS FOR BOOMERS!

Researchers reported that N-O helps with energy levels, blood pressure, cholesterol, joint discomfort, and assisted in strengthening the immune system.

90-SECOND CIRCULATION BOOSTER

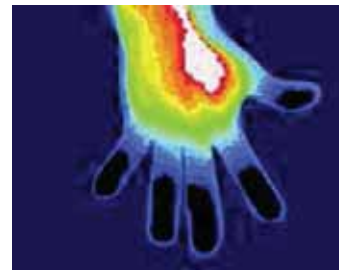

Based on the research of Dr. Nathan S. Bryan, PhD, who lectures to doctors around the world about Nitric Oxide, Neogenis® Labs has created a revolutionary lozenge, called Neo 40 daily, that makes it easy to restore N-O levels. This "fast-dissolve" lozenge restores your N-O to youthful levels by dissolving within 90 seconds and begins to work immediately, which leads to better circulation, for many in as little as 20 minutes.

BETTER CIRCULATION TO WHOLE BODY

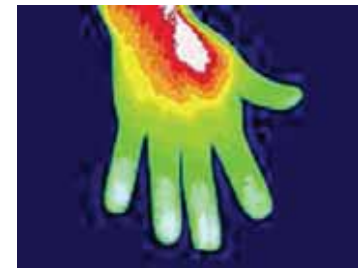

Better circulation helps increase stamina, maximizes metabolism, helps manage stress and maintains healthy sexual function. Healthy N-O levels also promote better blood pressure and cholesterol as a result of improved circulation to all major organs.

SURPRISE BENEFITS FOR MEN & WOMEN

"Adequate amounts of Nitric Oxide insure sufficient amounts of blood to flow to the extremities, especially the penis, resulting in an erection. The same applies to women; without proper blood flow to the clitoris, orgasms are difficult," says Dr. Bryan.

Dark = Low Blood Flow

Light = Increased Blood Flow

A boost in Nitric Oxide levels may equal increased sexual sensitivity for men and women. Tammy from Ontario said, "The first night after my first dose I had improved circulation in my hands. I find the increased circulation is a definite benefit in the bedroom." "We noticed a difference in my husband's erections within a week. We can't believe how well it works," reports pleased wife Marion S., of New York.

NATURAL RESULTS YOU CAN FEEL

Lee L., from CA was stunned with her results. "I have had knee, leg and shoulder problems for over 10 years. The pain has deprived me of sleep for months! Ronald D. TX explains, "The results were noticeable overnight. I had more energy and was able to focus more readily."

BEET & BERRY COMBO BOOSTS N-O

Neo 40 daily proprietary combination of N-O boosting nutrients: amino acids, B Vitamins, Vitamin C, and Magnesium are specially formulated with the patent pending combination of red beet and hawthorn berry. The natural chemistry between them generates Nitric Oxide when dissolved in the mouth. The result is increased oxygen delivery, improved vascular function, enhanced sexual enjoyment, and protection against free radicals.

BOOST BLOOD FLOW & OXYGEN STARTING IN 20 MINUTES!

"I recommend this lozenge because it helps the body restore N-O, which leads to healthy circulation; for most in as little as 20 minutes," affirms Dr. Bryan. The result is increased oxygen delivery, heightened immune function, improved vascular function, and enhanced sexual enjoyment

Labour shortage

Province will need 100K jobs filled over next decade: Report

Construction estimators and automotive service technicians won't find it hard to get work in Alberta, according to a recent report from the government.

The province released its short-term employment forecast Thursday and in addition to showing what's in demand, it showed overall the province expects a labour shortage over the next 10 years.

"We're going to have 96,000 jobs without people and we have to put the strategies in place to make sure we bring those people over here," he said.

The province ranks demand for jobs using seven variables and construction estimators and automotive service technicians scored high in all seven.

Another 29 occupations ranked high in six of those variables, making them high-demand occupations.

The occupations were mostly centred around construction, with civil and mechanical engineers, steamfitters and contractors on the list, but chefs and hairstylists are also expected to be in short supply.

Fawcett said the province is going to use the information in a variety of ways, including encouraging students to pursue education in the right areas.

"We need to continue to ensure that we are pushing construction trades information out to young people so they can see that as a viable opportunity," he said. RYAN TUMILTY/METRO

Edmonton police have arrested a convicted fraudster, previously charged for his part in a $58-million Ponzi scheme, in connection to a $900,000 travel trailer theft scheme that spanned Western Canada.

Alyn Richard Waage, 67, is currently in police custody for his alleged role in producing 19 fake vehicle registrations for stolen travel trailers and recreational vehicles.

Donald Michael White, 56, was also arrested in the operation and police are still searching for Kelly Thomas Yates, 50. In total there are 95 charges between the three men.

Following an eight-month investigation, police recovered $863,130 worth of high-end travel trailers and recreational equipment that had been stolen and resold to unsuspecting buyers through online classifieds, including Kijiji.

EPS first became aware of the fraud after they searched a home in south Edmonton last October. At the residence, they recovered a stolen Ford F-350 truck, Custom Weld Viper 2 jet boat, a Gateway boat trailer and other stolen equipment totalling approximately $198,300.

Police kicked off the investigation shortly after the initial seizure, with help from the RCMP, the Saskatoon Police Service and the Insurance Bureau of Canada, and uncovered the 19 fake registrations for vehicles in Alberta, Saskatchewan and B.C.

Det. Alfred Normand of the EPS auto theft unit said the trailers were stolen from storage facilities and from people's driveways outside of Edmonton.

"If it's on your driveway, it's just a matter of pulling up to it and pulling away," Normand said.

"The individuals we've identified as innocent third parties paid close to fair market value for those trailers," he added.

Waage has a history of fraud schemes. In 2003, he Safety. Police officers, peace officers pair up for transit pilot project

Edmonton Transit officials want to make transit safer with a new pilot project that will see police officers and peace officers both patrolling on transit.

Running until mid-December, officers say the pilot project meant to encourage safety only on the northern portion of the LRT line could grow with the expansion of the LRT line, depending on budget and resources.

"In line with all this growth, ETS is committed to enhancing our approach to customers' safety and security by actively exploring and creating new relationships with key partners like the police," said Marvin Chick, superintendent with Edmonton Transit System cus-

Four Edmonton police officers and four transit peace officers will take part in the pilot project that officers say is important with the start of K-Days.

"We're about to open the Metro Line and it's important that we identify how we can provide things differently in the city," said Chick.

Back on the table? Tory candidates eye revisiting licence plate debate

Alberta's great plate debate is far from over.

The three candidates vying to become the next Progressive Conservative party leader and premier said Thursday they want to revisit the current online voting competition to pick the province's next licence plate.

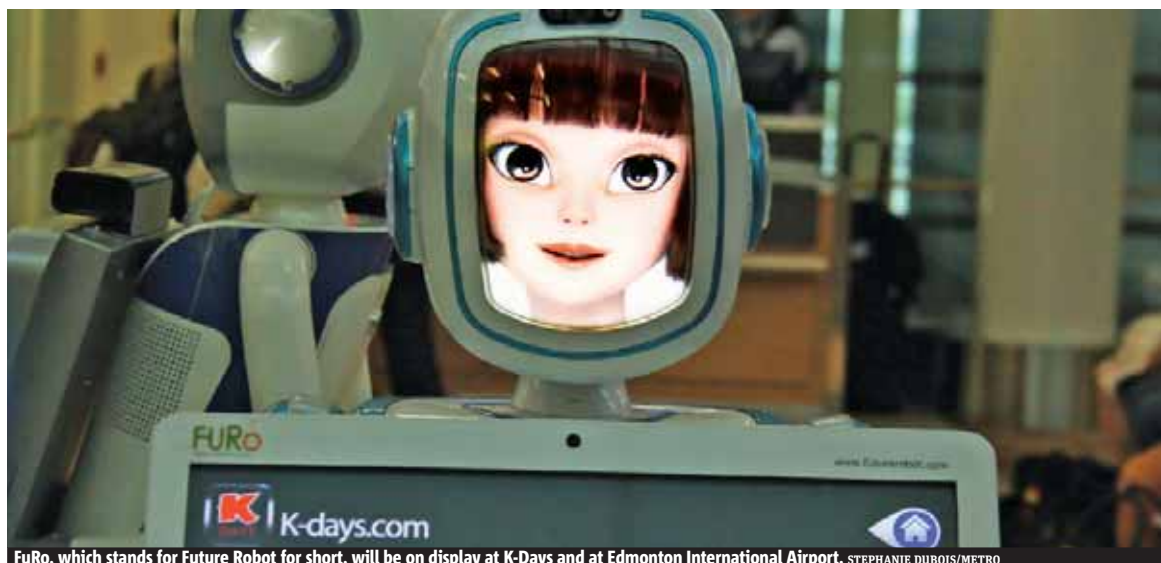

"Clearly it struck a nerve with Albertans and I think it's important if you're going to change symbols that you have a broadly based discussion with people and hear what they have to say about it," said Jim Prentice.

"I'm interested in hearing what people have to say and (would) make any decisions based on what I hear."

Just over a week ago, the province launched an online competition allowing Albertans to pick a new licence plate to replace the current red on white model.

The robots will be at K-Days and will return to the airport after the festival is over as part of the pilot project, which has no concrete end date yet.

The robots were last used at the Oscars on the red carpet, said Sagoo, and are also being used at the Rio de Janeiro airport.

Repair station. Cyclists offered tools, pump, gauge and tutorials

The city has its first bike repair station, with all the necessary tools cyclists may need to fix their bikes in a hurry.

Situated in the basement of MacEwan University's Robbins Health Learning Centre pavilion, the station allows cyclists to secure a bike on the stand and then work on it.

"The goal with this bike station was to reduce any barriers of people riding their bikes to MacEwan University," said Emma Shipalesky, the school's sustainability co-ordinator.

The bike repair station is the first of its kind in Edmonton, according to Shipalesky, with eight tools and a pump-and-gauge set attached to the bike station.

The small metal structure also comes with a QR code that users can scan with their smartphone to get tips on how to fix a two-wheeler. School officials also plan to get community members in to teach workshops on how to fix a bicycle.

The bike station is located in the university's bike parking area, which can accommodate several bikes in the underground space.

Although the free bike station is available only to students and staff at this time, program staff are hoping to add another bike repair station, possibly in a public space.

"We're always looking to

I was on a date with a sloppy donair in Copenhagen, seeking a bench to eat it responsibly.

I found it wedged between a strip of rugged apartments, in a shockingly red plaza speckled with curios — towering neon signs in Russian, a Lebanese cedar tree, an Arabic bus stop sign and 100 more world artifacts.

Many fixtures were interactive. Children horse-played in a Muay Thai boxing ring. A couple soaked their feet in a Moroccan fountain. It was like Heritage Festival, but permanent.

I'd arrived to Superkilen, a park for the people, by the people. The playgrounds, street furniture and even manhole covers are authentic or replicas of real pieces suggested by residents of Nørrebro, a largely immigrant neighbourhood.

There are other lessons a city can learn from Superkilen. Not only did they turn the seedy defunct rail yards into a pleasant park, but it worked well across generations. Skateboarding ramps, exercise equipment, flea markets and a café engage people with multiple interests in the same shared space, something most city parks fail to accomplish.

It also shows urban parks don't have to be pastoral or expensive. The kilometre-long corridor in three sections — the aforementioned Red Square, pinstripe-designed Black Market and a more traditional green park — costs about $11.3 million Canadian. And that includes the price of sending two young Palestinians to their parents' homeland to gather dirt for burial in the park.

"The most expensive part is the green park," says Uwe-Bergmann. "The Red Square is just a paint job with things put in it." I can think of many While you're there...

Eat at Kronborg: Forget the ballyhoo about the New Nordic cuisine and enjoy exquisite smørrebrød, traditional open-faced sandwiches, in a refurbished tavern that's so old the new management can't exactly date it. Start with a platter of cool herring in sweet, salty and savoury variety, accompanied by an aquavit. The vodka-like spirit is essential, otherwise, the Danes joke, "the fish can't swim."

Visit Christiania: How an ultra-leftist commune arrived, grew and stayed in Copenhagen is a fascinating history lesson I can't provide. But there they are, peddling their wares, building their cargo bikes and recycling everyone's trash into shelters and fixtures.

Take a "Bikify" city tour: Whether you want to learn more about Vikings, Danish royalty, food or architecture, there's no better way to learn it than riding through the city's world-standard cycling paths. Bikify offers various themed tours for small groups using futuristic, electric city bikes, which are almost as neat as the sites themselves.

underused parking lots in the inner city that could use a paint job.

But most importantly, it gives Nørrebro neighbours a sense of ownership.

"I'm hopeful that Superkilen could provide a playbook on how to create similar places in other diverse societies."

Columnist Omar Mouallem is travelling abroad and over the next several weeks will connect areas he's exploring with similar scenarios in Edmonton.

Under the big white tent. Elise Verdoncq: the horse whisperer at Odysseo Acrobat Andrea Legg has been taking us behind the scenes of Odysseo by Cavalia and will continue to do so every Friday until the end of the show's run in August.

Originally from Croix, France, 28-year-old Elise Verdoncq has been riding since the age of six.

In her childhood years, she trained in both jumping and voltige (trick riding) and subsequently turned her focus to the art of dressage as a teenager.

In 2009, she left behind what could have been a promising career as a lawyer for her love of horses. Her passion led her to a career with Cavalia.

She then joined Odysseo and began her solo Liberty number where she gently guides between six and 12 Arabian horses through a sequence of moves with only her voice and body language.

Elise demonstrates her extraordinary commitment through her amazing ability to communicate with her horses, creating a strong relationship based on trust and patience.

Elise Verdoncq with one of her Arabian horses. CONTRIBUTED

The authentic and mutual respect between Elise and her horses enables them to achieve breathtaking choreographies in front of an adoring crowd of 2,000 spectators.

That very special bond she shares with her horses is what drives her every day through countless hours of specialized training, care and grooming.

When asked about her greatest challenge in terms of training, Elise explains: "It is to find a great balance of consistency and surprise in order to keep the horses engaged and confident".

Jasper intersection is 'safe': city review

Standards may need change. Iveson says same rules might not apply downtown

ryan.tumilty@metronews.ca

The Jasper Avenue intersection where a 19-year-old woman was hit and critically injured last week meets city standards, but Mayor Don Iveson said it's those standards that may need to change.

The city last reviewed the intersection in January after a request from Mayor Iveson himself.

Laura McNabb, the transportation department spokesperson, said that when the city reviewed the intersection, the staff found no problems with the sight's lines or signage. She said the intersection already includes additional places for pedestrians to cross.

"The proximity of a fully-signalized crossing at 118 Street has been and remains the reason that additional engineering measures have not been required at the 119 Street and Jasper intersection," she said.

Iveson said he expects a more robust review of the intersection than took place earlier this year.

Previously

Including the most recent, there have been four crashes in the intersection involving pedestrians since 2009, according to the office of traffic safety.

"I'm not sure that's going to satisfy council when we come back and talk about intersection safety standards in August," he said.

McNabb said, following the most recent collision, staff is looking into the intersection again and this time the result may be different.

"There's quite a bit of development that's planned for the neighbourhood in the next several years. That may change the parameters," she said.

Iveson said current standards for intersection safety might not work in neighbourhoods like Oliver or other busy areas.

"Our densest areas and our most activated areas may need a different standard."

He said he would also like to look at how the city reviews an intersection after a collision.

"Exactly what level of response the city is going to give, that may be something we may need to look at," he said.

Possible changes

"There's quite a bit of development that's planned for the neighbourhood in the next several years. That may change the parameters."

'Einstein' camp. Local student joins foreigners for a summer of physics

At 18 years old, Edmonton's Susan Zhuo isn't spending her summer holidays like a regular teenager.

The Archbishop MacDonald grad is joining 40 students from around the world to spend two weeks at one of the leading independent theoretical physics institutes, participating in a program the institute claims to supercharge potential "Einsteins."

Located in Waterloo, Ont., Perimeter Institute for Theoretical Physics welcomes high-school students from Canada, Mexico, Brazil, Israel, England, Poland and Australia for a week of exploring theoretical physics.

"We're all interested in physics and they come from all over the world. It's really interesting to talk to them because we all have the same passion," said Zhuo, who is intrigued by the idea that physics is the foundation of the universe.

Israeli forces launch ground offensive

Thousands of Israeli soldiers backed by tanks launched a ground offensive on the Gaza Strip on Thursday, escalating a 10-day campaign of heavy air bombardments to try to destroy Hamas' weapons arsenal, rocket-firing abilities and tunnels used to send militants from the Palestinian territory into Israel.

Israel had become increasingly exasperated with unrelenting rocket fire, especially following Hamas' rejection of an Egyptian ceasefire plan earlier in the week. More than 240 Palestinians have already died in the air campaign, including children under age 12, according to Palestinian health officials.

One Israeli also died and several were wounded by Hamas rocket fire since July 8.

Hamas spokesman Fawzi Barhoum said Israel "will pay dearly" for the assault.

298 killed when Malaysian flight shot down over Ukraine

No survivors. Flight 17 was carrying 283 passengers and 15 crew members Ukraine accused pro-Russian separatists of shooting down a Malaysian jetliner with 298 people aboard Thursday, sharply escalating the crisis and threatening to draw both East and West deeper into the conflict. The rebels denied downing the aircraft.

American intelligence authorities believe a surface-to-air missile brought the plane down but were still working on who fired the missile and whether it came from the Russian or Ukrainian side of the border, a U.S. official said.

Bodies, debris and burning wreckage of the Boeing 777 were strewn over a field near the rebel-held village of Hrabove in the Donetsk region of eastern Ukraine, about 40 kilometres from the Russian border, where fighting has raged for months.

The cockpit and one of the turbines lay at a distance of one kilometre from one another. Residents said the tail was about 10 kilometres farther away. Rescue workers planted sticks with white flags in spots where they found human remains.

There was no sign of any survivors from Flight 17, which took off shortly after noon Thursday from Amsterdam to Kuala Lumpur with 298 people on board, including three infants, and a crew of 15. Malaysia's prime minister said there was no distress call before the plane went down and that the flight route was declared safe by the International Civil Aviation Organization.

The RIA-Novosti agency quoted rebel leader Alexander Borodai as saying talks were underway with Ukrainian authorities on calling a short truce for humanitarian reasons. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Facebook testing new 'Buy' button

Changing for dollars. The Buy button could drive sales through the massive site

Facebook is testing a Buy button in its latest effort to help businesses boost their sales through the world's biggest online social network.

The company said in a statement Thursday that the button will let people buy products directly from businesses without leaving Facebook. A Buy button appears at the bottom of sponsored ads and is being tested by a limited group of several small- and medium-sized U.S. businesses.

EMarketer analyst Debra Aho said that not long ago, most businesses thought Facebook was better suited for building awareness than driving sales, but the Menlo

Park, Calif.-based company is trying hard to change that image.

"With this step, Facebook is becoming even more firmly established as a major player in direct response advertising, and though this test is still only a test, it's a definite sign that Facebook wants to restart its efforts to become an e-commerce company as well," she said. Facebook says it won't share credit-debit info. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mike Duffy arrives on Parliament Hill in October 2013. The RCMP have laid 31 charges against the suspended senator.
ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

RCMP charges Duffy with fraud, bribery

Senate scandal.
Spokesman for PM Harper calls suspended senator's alleged behaviour 'disgraceful'

With his folksy style and passion for politics, Mike Duffy became a household name as a veteran television journalist — a career that led him to a coveted Conservative seat in Parliament's upper chamber.

All that came crashing down Thursday as the RCMP laid 31 charges of fraud, breach of trust and bribery against the suspended senator.

The charges involve Duffy's claims for living expenses, claims for travel expenses unconnected with Senate business and fraudulent contracts, said RCMP's assistant commissioner, Gilles Michaud. They also cover a $90,000 payment Duffy allegedly received from Nigel Wright, the prime minister's former chief of staff.

Convictions on the charges could result in a prison sentence. The bribery count carries a maximum of 14 years. Duffy's first court appearance is set for Sept. 16, the day after Parliament is scheduled to resume.

Donald Bayne, Duffy's lawyer, said when the full story is told, it will be clear Duffy is innocent of any wrongdoing.

"Those — including many in the media — who have been so eager and quick over the past year and a half to malign and even libel Sen. Duffy without his ever having had a fair hearing, should slow down their rush to judgment and let fair process determine this matter."

The behaviour outlined in the RCMP charges against Duffy is "disgraceful," a spokesman for Stephen Harper said Thursday.

"We assisted the RCMP throughout their investigation, and congratulate them on the progress they have made," Jason MacDonald said in a statement. "Those who break the rules must suffer the consequences. The conduct described in the numerous charges against Mr. Duffy is disgraceful."

Omar Khadr willing to remain in federal prison

Omar Khadr will remain in a federal prison.

The former Guantanamo Bay detainee has agreed to a stay of a decision by Alberta's top court that ruled he should be serving his sentence as a youth and be transferred to a provincial jail. His lawyers say he's willing to remain at the federal Bowden Institution in central Alberta because he's doing well there, and they believe he'll still be able to apply to a youth court judge for release.

British Columbia. One evacuation lifted, another issued during wildfires

There was relief Thursday for hundreds of weary residents forced from their homes in northeastern British Columbia, as rain dampened a raging wildfire enough for officials to lift an evacuation order for the district of Hudson's Hope.

But as one evacuation order was lifted, another was issued for the community of Smith Creek, a neighbourhood in West Kelowna.

A small fire on the edge of the neighbourhood bloomed from a patch to 30 hectares in size in a few hours over Thursday afternoon.

Carla Weaden, a spokeswoman for Central Okanagan Emergency Operations, said the evacuation involves roughly 1,500 people from 585 homes. One home and outbuilding have already been consumed by the fire.

About 1,100 kilometres north of that fire, residents returned to Hudson's Hope after an anxious and sleepless night.

However they remained on evacuation alert and were warned to be ready to leave again at a moment's notice.

Woman fired over gay marriage sues U.S. Catholic church

'I was mostly shell-shocked.' Colleen Simon was fired when the couple was mentioned last April in a newspaper article

A parish food pantry worker who was fired over her marriage to another woman sued the Diocese of Kansas City-St. Joseph on Thursday, the latest in a growing number of clashes across America over gay rights between Roman Catholic leaders and their employees.

Colleen Simon, 57, said the diocese and the parish where she worked knew she was married and that her wife was a well-known community leader before Simon was hired. She was fired when the couple was mentioned last April in a newspaper article.

"I was mostly shell-shocked," Simon said. "I hadn't thought it would come to this."

Diocesan officials hadn't yet seen the lawsuit, but said in a statement, "As a church, we have the right to live and operate according to our faith and church teachings."

The Missouri lawsuit was filed Thursday by Simon, who said she worked as a parish bookkeeper in the diocese before she was hired in 2013 as a food pantry co-ordinator at St. Francis Xavier Church.

In each step of the hiring process, she said, she told administrators she had married a woman a year earlier in Iowa, where gay marriage is recognized, and diocesan and parish representatives said her marital status would not be a problem.

Gay rights group

New Ways Ministry, a Catholic gay-rights group, has found more than 15 cases since 2010 of U.S. teachers, school administrators or parish musicians who lost jobs or resigned after expressing support for gay marriage or going public with their own same-sex relationships.

- Dioceses in Cincinnati and Columbus, Ohio; Honolulu, Hawaii; Oakland, Calif., and elsewhere have added moral clauses to their teacher contracts, barring public support for gay rights.

American gets 20 years for 1984 jetliner hijacking

An American who returned from Cuba decades after hijacking a jetliner to the communist island was sentenced Thursday to 20 years in U.S. prison but will be eligible for early release on parole, an acknowledgement by prosecutors of the years he spent behind bars in Cuba.

U.S. District Judge K. Michael Moore imposed the sentence Thursday on William Potts Jr., 57, for the 1984 hijacking of the Piedmont Airlines flight en route from New York to Miami. Potts pleaded guilty to a kidnapping charge, which was substituted by prosecutors for a previous air piracy charge that would have required Potts to serve a minimum of 20 years.

This way, Potts should get out on parole after serving almost seven years. Assistant U.S. Attorney Maria Medetis said that was the government's way of giving Potts credit for 13 years he served in Cuba — the Combinado del Este Prison near Havana that Potts' lawyer, Robert Berube, described as a "hellhole."

"He did an unbelievable amount of time in a very bad place," Berube said.

Potts apologized in court and said he is no longer the self-described angry black militant calling himself "Lt. Spartacus" who claimed in a note to a flight attendant that he planned to blow up the flight unless it was diverted to Cuba.

Potts returned to the U.S. last year hoping to resolve the case so he could spend time with his two children, who had since moved from Cuba to the U.S. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chelsea Manning. U.S. Bureau of Prisons rejects Army's transfer request

The U.S. Bureau of Prisons has rejected the Army's request to accept the transfer of national security leaker Chelsea Manning from a military prison. The military will therefore begin treatment for her gender-identity condition.

A defence official said Defence Secretary Chuck Hagel has approved the Army's recommendation to keep Manning in military custody and start a rudimentary level of gender treatment.

The Army tried to get Manning transferred to the federal prison system, but officials said those discussions have ended.

Manning has been diagnosed with gender dysphoria, the sense of being a woman in a man's body. Civilian prisons can provide treatment, but the Defence Department doesn't have the medical expertise needed. Officials spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to discuss the matter publicly by name. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sandusky's son talks to Oprah about alleged abuse by father

Adopted. Convicted of sexual abuse of 10 boys, Jerry Sandusky now serving from 30 to 60 years in prison

An adopted son of convicted child molester Jerry Sandusky is providing details of the sexual abuse he allegedly suffered at the hands of his father.

Matt Sandusky, who was initially a foster child of the Sanduskys, tells Oprah Winfrey in a TV show airing Thursday night that his overnight visits with the family as a child were good "except for one part: bedtime."

"Bedtime was the bad part. But any other time that we were in the home, that we were doing anything in the home with the family, it was fine and it was — again, you would look at that family and you would say, wow. Like I wish that I had brothers and sisters that cared about me. I wish that I had a mother who cooked dinner every night for the whole family. I wish that I had all of these things. But then at bedtime, his ritual began," Matt Sandusky told Winfrey in a brief clip released by the network.

The network said Sandusky discusses the grooming, methodical control and manipulation he faced as a child.

He had also discussed the alleged abuse in a documentary, Happy Valley, shown earlier this year and in an audiotape of an interview with police detectives that NBC obtained at the time of Jerry Sandusky's 2012 trial.

Matt Sandusky told investigators Jerry Sandusky had rubbed along or against his genitals. He said then that he did not recall any penetration or oral sex, and that memories were coming back to him. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

I'm 'sober as a judge,' claims Rob Ford

Complete recovery?

Mayor guarantees that his enemies' wishes for him to fall off the wagon just won't happen

Toronto Mayor Rob Ford is declaring himself "sober as a judge" and "healthy as a horse."

For the first time since Ford completed two months in rehab, he took questions about his substance abuse from journalists at large.

Ford previously said in a handful of interviews that he couldn't guarantee he won't relapse, only that he's taking his recovery one day at a time.

But he was more declarative Thursday when asked when the last time was that he drank or did drugs.

"A lot of people really wish that I'm going to fail, that I'm going to drink and that I'm going to do drugs," Ford said.

"Unfortunately, that wish will not come true.

"That wish, guaranteed, will not come true because I'm as sober as a judge and I'm moving forward, running this city and saving taxpayers money."

Ford said he knows people are watching his every move and that they should continue doing so because his "biggest move" will be on Oct. 27: election day.

A sobriety coach who had been trailing Ford has moved on.

Cops not amused by pizza prank, lay extra charges

Police in southern Kentucky say they got a surprise delivery after charging a man with shoplifting — five pizzas showed up at the station.

Police say Michael Harp, 29, asked to make a call on his cell while being booked. A short time later a pizza delivery driver showed up for the officer who arrested Harp.

Police say they linked the call to Harp by tracking his cell. But Harp said "about 10 people" used his phone.

Still, he now faces other charges: theft of identity, theft by deception and impersonating a police officer.

U.S.A. Campaigning politician gets into a jam showing gun bona fides

If guns are a run-of-the-mill prop for politicians in the United States, it was perhaps only a matter of time before things backfired on someone this campaign season.

A candidate in this fall's congressional elections had to yank down an online video in which he used a pump-action shotgun to blow up a pinata of an elephant — the logo of the Republican party.

It was the hint of political violence that people disliked, not the use of a shotgun in Estakio Beltran's campaign ad.

"They call me a long shot. They say I can't win in this district," said the ad featuring Beltran, who's running for a House seat in a conservative enclave of Washington State.

As he prepared to lay down the big kaboom, he added: "But what happens to an elephant when it stands around, doing nothing, for too long?"

The ad earned him a scolding from the group founded by Gabby Giffords, the former congresswoman partly paralyzed by an assassin's bullet.

Her group, Americans for Responsible Solutions, called the ad irresponsible and offensive.

But Giffords used to pose

Don't shoot the elephant

For those running in rural areas of the U.S. like Democrat Estakio Beltran, being photographed with a gun is almost a prerequisite for office, like kissing babies.

for pictures with guns, too.

Last year, someone leaked a photo of her holding an AR-15 assault rifle after her astronaut husband Mark Kelly had pushed for a restriction on the weapon, associated with the Newtown massacre.

Giffords responded on her Facebook page, saying she still supported gun rights but just wanted some stricter limits.

However some of the people commenting on her page called her a hypocrite, playing two sides of the fence.

Democrats in more conservative areas sometimes go to great visual lengths to prove their gun-rights bona fides.

Attack closes Kabul airport

Tense time. Attack comes as disputed second round of presidential election yet to be resolved

Afghanistan's election commission began auditing ballots Thursday following a U.S.-brokered deal between the two presidential contenders while a brazen attack on the Kabul airport underscored the dangers the country still faces.

The pre-dawn rocket attack on Kabul International Airport shut down the facility and set off a gun battle in which four attackers were killed, officials said.

The militants occupied two buildings which were under construction some 700 metres north of the national jet fighters flying over Kabul. Several rockets hit the airport but no planes were damaged.

Troops withdrawal

Military commanders did not recommend that the White House announce the complete withdrawal of U.S. troops from Afghanistan in 2017 as the president ordered, the top U.S. commander there told senators Thursday.

The airport hosts civilian traffic and serves as a base for NATO-led forces that have been fighting the Taliban and other insurgents for more than a decade. Rocket attacks near the airport are not rare, but are not usually this close.

Kabul's police chief said the airport later reopened and operations returned to normal.

Taliban spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid claimed responsibility for the assault.

A deal negotiated over the weekend by U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry provides that every one of the 8 million ballots will be audited under national and international supervision.

Millions in gold recovered from shipwreck: Documents

Deep-sea explorers recovered millions of dollars in gold and silver and a slew of personal items that are a virtual time capsule of the California Gold Rush, according to newly unsealed court documents that provide the first detailed inventory of a treasure trove being resurrected from an 1857 shipwreck at the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean.

The recovery effort at the SS Central America shipwreck, about 320 kilometres off the South Carolina coast, is being directed by a court-appointed receiver of an Ohio company

Tommy Thompson, who first found the Central America in 1988.

Immediately after finding the ship and recovering a fraction of its garden of gold, Thompson became embroiled in a decades-long legal battle over who had rights to the treasure and how it was being dispersed. None of the investors ever saw a return.

Holocaust museum opens WWII war crimes archive to the public

From Adolf Hitler down to the petty bureaucrats who staffed the Nazi death camps, thousands of perpetrators of World War II war crimes were eventually written up in vast reams of investigative files that now, for the first time, can be viewed in their entirety by the public.

The U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington has obtained a full copy of the UN War Crimes Commission archive that has largely been locked away for the past 70 years at the United Nations.

In addition to Hitler and his henchmen, the files list thousands of obscure cases.

They include Helmut Steinmetz in Warsaw, Poland, who was accused of murdering a crippled Jewish man he met on the street, as well as killing a railroad porter with a stick for refusing to carry his luggage.

And Elmar Luder Precht, chief dentist at concentration camps, who was accused of selecting Auschwitz inmates for execution based on gold or platinum teeth that could be taken.

Strike averted

Long Island rail workers get deal

After four years of negotiations, unions and management at the United States' largest commuter railroad reached a tentative contract agreement Thursday.

The deal announced by Gov. Andrew Cuomo, who personally got involved in the final hours of the negotiations, gives Long Island Rail Road workers a 17 per cent pay raise over 6-1/2 years.

Cuomo, who is running for a second term in November, hailed the deal as a compromise that protects workers and riders because it calls for no additional fare hikes.

Eight unions representing 5,400 Long Island Rail Road workers had threatened to walk off the job at 12:01 a.m. Sunday. The workers had been seeking a new deal since 2010.

"I was really concerned," said Sibel Aras of Port Washington. "It's really good news. I'm happy for them. They deserve it."

Tim Hortons brewing some innovative ideas

Coffee klatch. Iconic Canadian coffee chain brainstorms new ways to beat competition much of a choice but to find ways to be different.

Certainly there were plenty of ideas to chew on — some even controversial.

Consider the beer taps that pour brews inspired by Tim Hortons' trademark coffee flavour — and a strawberry lager for the sweeter tooth. Or how about a unisex washroom that features a communal sink? And there's even a conceptual design for a new Tim Hortons logo that features only a bright red coffee bean.

Tim Hortons first showcased digital menu boards at its previous model store seven years ago and only recently have they become part of the store design.

Lean and mean. Microsoft cuts jobs, boosts stock

Microsoft is cutting up to 18,000 jobs, about 14 per cent of its staff, over the next year as it works to cut down on management layers and integrate the Nokia devices business it bought in April.

The news sent Microsoft's stock up three per cent in premarket trading.

Although the job cuts had been expected, the extent of them was a surprise. It's the boldest move by CEO Satya Nadella since he took the reins from Steve Ballmer in February. In a public email to employees Thursday, he said the changes were needed for the company to "become more agile and move faster."

Of the job cuts, about 12,500 professional and factory jobs will be cut. Microsoft expects charges of $1.1 billion to $1.6 billion over the next four quarters, which includes $750 million to $800 million for severance and related benefit costs.

Microsoft has been shifting its focus from traditional PC software to cloud computing and cloud-based products like its Office 365 productivity software.

With its $7.3 billion acquisition of Nokia's handset business, Microsoft has been seeking to meld its software and hardware business into a cohesive package, similar to rival Apple. In a letter to employees, Executive Vice-President Stephen Elop said the company will drive sales of its Windows Phone by targeting the lower-price smartphone market with its Lumia devices. It also plans to develop more products for the higher-end smartphone segment.

In a blog post a week ago, Nadella hinted at the move, saying Microsoft had to "change and evolve" its culture for the "mobile-first and cloud-first world."

Loblaws. Weston steps up

Galen Weston is taking more control of the family-run business as he assumes the role of president at Loblaw Companies Ltd., Canada's largest grocer, amid the abrupt departure of two senior executives.

Weston, who is also executive chairman of the company, said Thursday that previously his responsibility had been to oversee strategy at the food retailing giant. Since that has been established in the last few years, he'll now handle the day-to-day operations, including opening up more communication with shareholders.

Weston said his family, who also controls Loblaw's parent company, George Weston Ltd. (TSX:WN), has undergone some major changes in the past year, including the $12.4-billion blockbuster acquisition of the Shoppers Drug Mart chain.

"So it shouldn't surprise anyone that the family, through me, are getting closer to the business to make sure that the vision that we've established, that supported the investment, actually gets delivered and executed," he said.

WHO'S HER DADDY? ALLEGEDLY DUFFY

It's time to check into the week's trendiest news ... or is that the week's newsiest trends? I get so confused.

1 The 13th Step is the Hardest. Toronto Mayor Rob Ford is back from rehab and is trying, with mixed results, to get back in the game. It's getting so bad that Marion Barry, the former crack-smoking mayor of Washington, D.C., says Ford is "making a fool of himself" and he's tired of people making comparisons.

2 He Ain't Heavy, He's My, Er, Dad: Speaking of XXXL politicians, star-crossed Sen. Mike Duffy is having a rough week. RCMP has laid 31 charges of fraud and breach of trust against him related to the Senate expense scandal. And if that doesn't put him off his feed, he finds himself fending off a paternity lawsuit from a 32-year-old woman who says he's her real dad. According to Maclean's, Karen

THE METRO LIST
Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

Duffy sprang from an affair Duffy had with a convicted Peruvian drug smuggler who served time at a Kingston prison. Just writing that sentence gives me goosebumps.

3 You Can Go Home Again. Especially if they're paying you $21,573,398 US a year to do so. After four years as the cornerstone of the Miami Heat, Ohio native LeBron James is going back to Cleveland where he started his NBA career, saying that he hopes to be a Cavalier for the rest of his career. Miami. Cleveland. Cleveland. Miami. What's to choose?

4 Duh. A California judge has declared the death penalty unconstitutional — probably because if you're a judge, you can't just call something stupid. You have to get legal and call it unconstitutional. But his argument is a bit creepy, to say the least.

The state, he opines, is breaking a solemn promise, i.e. to kill the condemned prisoner. Of the 900 sent to death row in California since 1978, only 13 have been executed. "For too long," the judge wrote, "the promise has been an empty one." Inmate to judge: I'm OK with that.

5 Death by Amoeba. In more unfunny news, a nine-year-old Kansas girl has been killed by a brain-eating amoeba called Naegleria fowleri. Lurking in the lake or the swimming hole, it goes up through your nose and heads for your brain ... and starts eating. It's extremely rare, but of the 130 people who have been infected over the last 50 years, only three have survived. Just when you thought it was safe to go back in the water.

6 What's Wrong with a Pony? Jeremiah Heaton, a doting dad from Virginia, gets the Enabler of the Week Award. His daughter Emily — like many a seven-year-old girl — is obsessed with princesses. So Dad hops on a plane and lands on an unclaimed patch of desert between Egypt and Sudan, where he plants the family flag (designed by the kids: blue background with a seal and stars), claiming it as The Kingdom of North Sudan, so Emily will one day be a real princess. Imagine if some guy from the Sudan tried that trick in Death Valley. We hope that Emily is amused, at least.

A Vodou pilgrim scrubs himself with tree leaves to give him good luck, as he gets ready to cleanse himself in a waterfall believed to have purifying powers during the annual celebration in Saut d'Eau, Haiti.

Vodou pilgrims head to the waters to pay tribute to patron saint Followers of Haiti's most celebrated patron saint, Our Lady of Mount Carmel, gather at the Saut d'Eau waterfall every summer to pay tribute and make requests.

This year, worshippers performed Voodoo cleansing rituals in the water, stripping off their clothes and using leaves to wash away bad luck and their sins.

They also petitioned the saint to improve their lives.

Lionel Saint-Jean said that after losing his house in Haiti's catastrophic 2010 quake, he asked the saint for a new one and got it.

"So I came this year to thank her for that," Saint-Jean said.

Thousands come to Saut d'Eau every year to honor the virgin.

Voodoo, or Vodou as many practitioners prefer, evolved from West African beliefs and adopted elements of Roman Catholicism.

STAR-TELEGRAM.COM

A tree grew in Haiti

The Saut d'Eau area holds cultural significance in Haiti, to both Catholic and Vodou practitioners.

- It is believed that the Virgin Mary of Mount Carmel appeared on a palm tree there in the 19th century.
- A French priest, afraid of the superstition this would inspire, cut the tree down, but it nonetheless became an important religious destination for Haitians.

Let's talk about sex (tapes)

Reel Guys

RICHARD

MARK BRESLIN

Cameron Diaz and Jason Segel's chemistry can't save Sex Tape. CONTRIBUTED

Implausible porno. Cameron Diaz in her underwear, a newly slim Jason Segel and a clever Rob Lowe casting can't save this film's lacklustre libido

Richard: Mark, any movie with the word sex in the title and Cameron Diaz in her underwear and a newly slim Jason Segel in the all-together should be a lot sexier than Sex Tape is.

The first 20 minutes plays more like an attempt to break the world record for using the word "sex" in a movie than an actual story. Diaz and Segel talk about sex, have sex, then talk about it some more, but rather than being racy or slap-your-thigh funny it becomes tiresome. The only word used more often is "iPad," which is even less provocative.

Mark: Richard, this movie is one of the best Apple commercials I've seen in years. But it does have some laughs. I couldn't decide, though, if it was original yet flimsy or flimsy yet original.

I was glad the running time clocked in at a neat 90 minutes as it was wearing out its welcome fast.

That's mostly because Cameron Diaz' smokin' hot bod is naked only in the first half of the picture. She has a pretty good chemistry with Jason Segel, but Rob Lowe steals the show.

Considering his own past, it's a neat bit of stunt casting.

RC: The Robs are the best part of the movie. The iPad retrieval from Rosenbaum's mansion gives Rob Lowe (who knows a thing or two about sex tapes) a chance for some off-the-wall fun as the straight-laced executive with a wild side.

Rob Corddry's wide-eyed interest in his best friend's sex tape was amusing and felt like the most genuine thing in the movie.

I thought Diaz and Segel were OK, but I didn't buy into the movie's main joke for a second.

MB: Yes, well, talk about a manufactured crisis!

There's lots to pick apart here, especially the subplot involving Corddry's black-mailing teenage son. But there's some nifty dialogue, especially at the beginning of the movie, and a scene I liked at the porn server's with a cameo by a famous comic actor.

By the way, all those porn website titles they spiel off are real ones, or, umm, so I was told by the guy sitting next to me.

RC: Hey! I was sitting next to you. I take the fifth.

Unlike you, I hated the first section of the movie. I thought the least interesting part of the movie was the sex and the sex talk.

Synopsis

Jason Segel and Cameron Diaz are Jay and Annie, a married couple who try to spice things up in the bedroom by video-taping themselves working through the Joy of Sex page by page. All goes well until Jay forgets to delete the video and mistakenly posts their three-hour amateur pornacular on the cloud. With BFFs Robby (Rob Corddry) and Tess (Ellie Kemper), the embarrassed couple try and retrieve each of the "infected" iPads, especially the one in the hands of Hank Rosenbaum (Rob Lowe), the family-first CEO of the company that publishes Annie's G-rated mommy blog.

The role Johnson was fighting for Hercules. The man also known as The Rock says he's always been obsessed with Greek strongman

Dwayne Johnson's first exposure to legendary strongman Hercules didn't come from mythology class, but from a legendary bodybuilder-turned-actor who played the divine Greek hero on screen twice.

"When I was a kid I remember being visually captivated by the Steve Reeves poster," says Johnson.

"He's breaking free of this pillar and chains. I didn't know the mythology back then but I knew the image. That image captivated me.

"When I was a kid I was always drawn to men who were able to accomplish things, whether they were big things or little things, but men who took care of business physically."

Years later as Johnson, then better known as wrestling superstar The Rock, was transitioning from the ring to the screen he thought his bulked up physique would make him the new Steve Reeves.

"When I got to Hollywood I spoke to executives and I brought up Hercules. Didn't have the clout to make anything happen back then. I have a little bit more these days though and I was able to make it happen."

The result of Johnson's lifelong dream is Hercules, an action adventure based

"There's been so many iterations of Hercules over the years I wanted to create something different," he says.

"Hopefully epic and hopefully redefine him for our generation."

In the film, Hercules rejects his own mythology in an attempt to stay grounded, something Johnson understands.

"I have enjoyed a good amount of success and I'm very grateful for everything that I have," the bulky actor says.

"Like Hercules not buying into the myth, not buying into the story but just being aware of it, I'm very grateful for being who I am and making sure that I continue to approach every project and everything that I do as if it is going to be my last."

Diane Keaton sings a new tune

And So It Goes.

Veteran actress always wanted to become a singer and finally got her wish in latest role

scene@metronews.ca

Diane Keaton's latest film, the romance And So It Goes, brings the star back to her roots.

As a beginner, long before she won an Academy Award for Annie Hall, or starred in the controversial Looking for Mr. Goodbar or inspired romantic rivalry between her Reds leading men, Warren Beatty and Jack Nicholson, Keaton dreamed of being a singer.

"I had a fantasy of being a nightclub singer that I carried through even into my early 20s," she says.

"I sang a couple of gigs, as they call them, but I was not very good. I began to understand that I was not going to be a singer. I've always loved to sing but I'm aware of the limitations of my voice. It was always a disappointing voice. I took singing lessons for years, but it was a very small voice. It's worse than it ever was. It's smaller than ever.

But I have this love of it. I love music. I love singing ballads and sad songs, it's just so much fun."

And sing she does in the new film, a romance co-starring Michael Douglas — "He couldn't be any more charming," she says — about Leah, a woman who gets a second chance at a career and love.

"I never thought I'd ever sing again. I had some songs intermittently in some movies but to have it come up again and have the possibility of singing four songs and one song all the way through was a dream come true."

Keaton describes Leah, a lounge singer who bursts into tears at the mere thought of her late husband, as a woman, "who has had a lovely life but has lost the love of her life. She's my age, in her late 60s."

The 68-year-old Oscar winner says playing Leah was "a joy," but adds, "getting old is a great levelling experience. You really do see the truth, which is that your expression and your goals don't really mean much in the grand scheme of things."

"With that in mind you start seeing life in a different way. You don't see it so much as the goals for the future; it's just now. You live in the moment, in the present. This is what you have."

"So I really feel you're more grateful, you're more filled with awe, you're more amazed because it is a huge, giant question mark this life we live in."

"It's a huge gift and you need to see yourself for what you are and appreciate what you have while you have it now."

Cattrall makes comedy out of crisis

Mid-life misadventure.

Kim Cattrall tackles the uncomfortable issues of aging in her new series, Sensitive Skin

RICHARD
scene@metronews.ca

Years before Kim Cattrall found international stardom as Samantha Jones, the brash best friend of Carrie, Miranda and Charlotte on Sex and the City, she learned a valuable lesson from a Hollywood legend. The 24-year-old actress was starring opposite Jack Lemmon in Tribute, a film version of the Broadway show that earned Lemmon a Tony nomination.

Lemmon had dozens of credits, including classics like Some like It Hot and The Apartment under his belt and two Oscars on his mantelpiece at home.

"How do you have longevity?" she asked the veteran actor.

"Take things that scare the pants off you," he replied.

It's advice she took to heart, particularly when approaching her new project, Sensitive Skin for HBO Canada.

"I think for me to bring this story to North America was the scariest thing," she says. "Hanging in there and really trusting my instincts because I doubted them sometimes. I put it on the shelf and I walked away but I kept coming back and I think the thing that kept me coming back was the fear of it.

"I could go on playing Samantha for the rest of my life but I wouldn't be very happy. I wouldn't be advancing in any way. This was really hard sometimes and it did scare me daily on the set. I never had children but I can imagine it's like having a child, or going through the gestation period. Instead of nine months it was almost nine years and you go through periods of real doubt and self-doubt."

Returning to television for the first time since Sex and the City, Cattrall plays Davina, a woman on the verge of a mid-life crisis who, along with her husband Al (Don McKellar), shakes the cobwebs off her suburban life by moving downtown.

"The city is almost a character as well. We've really given Toronto a midlife crisis too."

"It's the change of the guard, isn't it? I'm starting to play characters who are of a certain age and it is a feeling of, 'Am I really ready for this?' Holding onto yesterday instead of embracing whatever this is," she says.

The show not only focuses on Davina and Al — "One of the things I'm most proud of is that you really believe Don and I are a couple," she says — but also Toronto, the city they call home. She credits McKellar, who also directed the series, with capturing the look and feel of Hogtown.

"He's made Toronto look like the city it is," she says. "Which is very difficult to capture. Because he has lived there his whole life, we were shooting in neighbourhoods the crew didn't even know about. It's so diverse. The city is almost a character as well. We've really given Toronto a mid-life crisis too."

Series premiere

Sensitive Skin premieres Sunday on HBO Canada at 8 p.m. ET/MT.

Andy Samberg. Comedian says
there is life after starring on SNL

Andy Samberg wants ousted Saturday Night Live cast members to know there is life after the comedy show.

Brooks Wheelan tweeted earlier this week that he had been fired from the NBC sketch comedy series.

A source familiar with casting but not authorized to speak on the record told The Associated Press that he would not be returning in the fall.

Talking to journalists Wednesday at a Television Critics Association set visit for Fox's Brooklyn Nine-Nine, Samberg said, "If you were hired ... there's something good going on with you."

Samberg was a featured cast member on SNL from 2005 to 2012.

The 35-year-old returned to guest host earlier this year after winning the Golden Globe Award for best actor in a television series musical or comedy for Nine-Nine.

He said the only different thing about hosting was that he didn't worry about being cut from the episode.

He joked, "When I order a coffee, it comes sooner because I don't have to wait for 30 other people's coffees. Other than that it's almost exactly the same."

Samberg is happy to be back in California to film Nine-Nine because he was raised in Berkeley. He also says it's better for his marriage (he wed musician Joanna Newsom last September).

"The schedule (now) is much better. ... SNL is notoriously bad for a relationship," he said.

show in France

This week while on stage at the Festival de Carcassonne in France, Elton John announced the end of his career. The British artist surprised the audience during the third song of the show, Candle in the Wind, by announcing his plans to retire and spend more time with his family.

"No more shows, no more music, no more songs," Elton John declared on stage, according to the French regional newspaper L'Indépendant.

The 67-year-old artist, who has sold nearly 250 million albums worldwide during his career of over 40 years, is scheduled to play several concerts across Europe before the end of 2014. AFP

Spin-off. How I Met Your Dad could get second life

How I Met Your Dad may not be dead yet. CBS Entertainment chairman Nina Tassler said Thursday the network wants "very much to stay in business" with the show's creators Craig Thomas, Carter Bays and executive producer Emily Spivey. She also said, "We'd love the opportunity to take another shot."

How I Met Your Dad was a spin-off of How I Met Your Mother, which aired its series finale in March.

So what went wrong with Dad? Tassler hinted to journalists at the Television Critics Association summer press tour that the cast didn't jibe.

"Some things about this worked, some things didn't," she said. "As I said many, many times, Big Bang (Theory) would not be Big Bang without having redone that pilot."

Tassler went on to say she couldn't imagine Kaley Cuoco not being on Big Bang. The

New TV series to be based on 1995 hit movie

Based on the 1995 Terry Gilliam film, Syfy series 12 Monkeys is set for a January 2015 debut with Aaron Stanford and Amanda Schull in pivotal roles.

Where Bruce Willis was Gilliam's troubled hero, it's Aaron Stanford (Nikita, X-Men: The Last Stand) who becomes time-traveling fugitive James Cole for the TV series. Like the original 12 Monkeys, the series is shaping up to tell a story of tangled timelines, fragmented mystery and fate. AFP

Bowie announces he will soon release new music

In a statement read aloud at a fundraising event for the Terrance Higgins Trust in London, David Bowie announced that he would soon release new music, NME reports. The legendary British artist and cultural icon returned to the limelight in 2013 with his album The Next Day, which earned a number of awards, including the 2014 Brit Award for Best Solo Male Artist.

The artist was not in attendance at the fundraising event but left this message for those present: "This city is even better than the one you were in last year, so remember to dance, dance, dance. And then sit down for a minute, knit something, then get up and run all over the place. Do it. Love on ya. More music soon. David."

While waiting for this new music, fans will soon be able to see David Bowie Is Happening Now, a documentary film on the Victoria & Albert Museum's exhibit on the artist's career. AFP

Heroes: Reborn

Hit show to return as miniseries

The miniseries Heroes: Reborn will focus primarily on a new cast of characters, creator Tim Kring revealed in an interview with Entertainment Weekly.

As fans of the late NBC series Heroes speculate on which stars could return for the reboot — Milo Ventimiglia, Zachary Quinto and Ali Larter have already stated they will not take part — Kring sought to shed some light on the situation.

He explained that aside from Jack Coleman in the role of Noah Bennett, the main protagonists of the new miniseries will be newcomers. AFP

TV. Details on late-night transitions still up in the air

CBS is taking a wide-open approach to replacing Craig Ferguson in late-night, including the possibility of a host from politics, CBS Entertainment chief Nina Tassler said Thursday.

Details of the late-night transition from David Letterman to Stephen Colbert and from Ferguson to a yet-to-be-found replacement remain undecided, Tassler said.

Whether the host of the 12:30 a.m. Eastern show that follows Colbert's Late Show comes from comedy or perhaps even the political realm is under discussion, she said.

"We're looking at it through a very different lens," she said.

That raises the interesting if surprising possibility of a politics-focused late-night for CBS, depending on how Colbert approaches his new job.

Network meetings will be held in August to discuss the scheduling of Colbert's 2015 debut as Late Show host, Tassler told a Television Critics Association meeting.

There have been preliminary discussions with Colbert but, Tassler noted, he remains occupied with his duties on Comedy Central's Colbert Report.

Letterman announced in April that he would retire next year but didn't say when.

As for the show's format under Colbert, he has said he wants an interview approach, Tassler said. But other details — such as whether there will be a band — are up in the air.

Colbert has already said he will leave his Colbert Report character, a blowhard conservative, behind.

When he debuts on Late Show as himself, he'll be joining NBC's Jimmy Fallon and ABC's Jimmy Kimmel as the new late-night vanguard following the retirement of veterans Letterman and Jay Leno, who left NBC's Tonight in February.

Ferguson said that he will leave The Late Late Show at the end of this year.

The "kneejerk" reaction is to go with the traditional interview format, Tassler added, "but who knows?"

Bob Saget sat right down and wrote his inner child a cleansing memoir

Full House rules.

Comedian gets real about tarnishing his Danny Tanner family-man image with dirty standup schtick Something titillating occurs when the stand-up comedian who endeared himself to TV audiences in the 1990s as the wholesome patriarch on Full House tours the festival circuit after decades of free-styling his particular brand of silly-dirty humour.

"They do take whatever controlled substances as these events go, and that's when my name from the past comes into play," Bob Saget joked in a recent interview. "They go, 'Oh my god, you're Danny Tanner,' and then I go, 'Yes I am, please put your shirt down, miss.'"

Saget, 58, has pushed his career forward with crass laughs in the years since he also played the host on America's Funniest Home Videos. But when pressed on the drugs issue in relation to his performance this Saturday at the Pemberton Music Festival, north of Vancouver, it's his inner parent who responds.

"I don't condone it, I don't want to see anybody get hurt, I want everybody to have a good time," said the real-life father of three, noting he just wants his audience to have the best time possible.

Saget will share the Laugh Camp stage at the festival's relaunch with a gut-busting lineup of a dozen or so comedians that also includes Tom Green, Lisa Lampanelli and Norm Macdonald. Dozens of bands, including headliners Soundgarden and Kendrick Lamar will also perform this weekend.

Saget's hour-long set will be a "best of" showcase, he said, where he'll "scat" stories, rib the audience and perhaps make the crowd sing along with a tune he popularized at Montreal's Just For Laughs Festival. Over the past year, Saget has toured across the United States, Australia and six Canadian provinces.

This time he is also promoting his memoir, released in April, called Dirty Daddy: The Chronicles of a Family Man Turned Filthy Comedian. The account, he said, is "about as honest as I've ever been with anything."

It describes a life peppered with death: Four siblings, three un-

Bob Saget COURTESY NATALIE BRASINGTON

Crass course in comeuppance

Saget intentionally sullied his image with roles in Entourage and The Aristocrats following the family friendly shows that made him a household name. He said the book wasn't so much an attempt to reinvent himself yet again as it was a "heart" exercise that was his immature way of "getting my comeuppance."

- His three adult daughters and their mother, from whom he is divorced, all loved the recounting, he said.
- "It was a little sketchy for (them) at first, because it was a shocker," he added, noting they expressed joy at forgotten memories and wonder over life details they never knew.
- "It was an outpouring for me, in my narcissistic writer's bubble. It was an empathetic kindness that I hadn't felt for a long time, because I laid myself out there.
- "That was the nicest part about it. Even my ex-wife said, 'Oh, I get you now. I understand that.'"

cles, Saget's father and, just before she had time to read the whole thing, his mother. Saget said he hopes the book underscores that no matter how bad life can get, comedy can be the salve.

"When there's humour in that conversation," Saget said, "it really does diffuse the moment. And it creates compassion, also, which can help a person feel like a person amidst some of the most horrific things that they go through."

When

asked whether Saget, a man who has sought success through contrasting faces, understands himself now, he didn't joke.

"Oh, I definitely do," he said. "I'm a silly comedian. I'm not a dirty comedian as much as I am a silly comedian. I laugh at stuff that a 10-year-old enjoys."

Sheryl Crow

Sheryl Crow having trouble finding an equal

Sheryl Crow likes to be extra-sure before jumping into anything, which is why she's been in no rush to walk down the aisle. "It's better to have three broken engagements than three divorces," she tells Good Housekeeping, poking fun at her own dating history.

So far as we know, she's only ever been engaged to Lance Armstrong, but she's also dated the likes of Eric Clapton and Owen Wilson.

"I had always gone out with guys who were highly successful, which would seem like it would put me at an equal level," she explains to the magazine. "But what ends up happening is that one of you becomes smaller — and it was always me. It's always the woman. I mean, I don't know if it's always the woman, but I do think that sometimes in order for one person's light to shine, every one else has to dim theirs."

First priority is career for Harry Potter star

Daniel Radcliffe's focus on his career is reportedly making for some uncomfortable times at home with girlfriend of two years Erin Darke, according to celebrity biographer Randy Jernigan. "Right now, Daniel's career comes first, not romance and marriage. Erin was expecting more from him. She feels like she isn't a priority in his life," Jernigan says.

It's not Harry's style to embark on a solo career

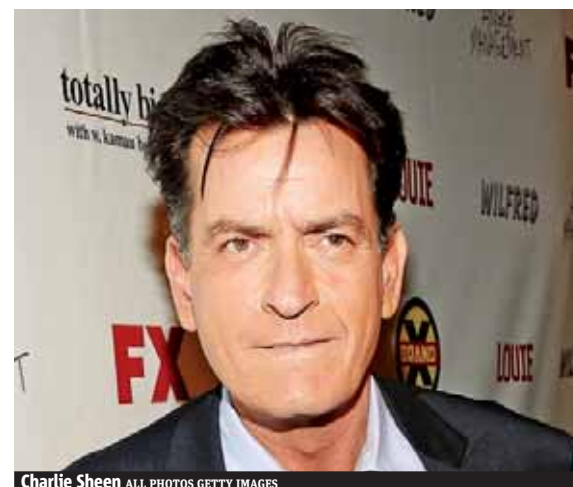

NED EHRBAR
Metro in Hollywood

Calm down, kids. Harry Styles is not leaving One Direction to embark on a solo career. Not yet, at least.

"Harry has no plans to go solo," a source tells Radar Online. "Harry is very reliant on the guys and feels much more secure when with them. He is actually quite timid in person."

That's adorable and all, but now I'm starting to think that there might actually be something to the rumors and that this denial is just a ruse. After all, the British are masters at self-deprecation, and the more self-effacing they get the less you can believe them. Like when you offer an Englishman more cake and he says, "Oh, I couldn't possibly"? He could, in fact.

So if this "source" had just left it at Harry being comfortable in a group setting, that would have been fine — and definitely more than a little suggestive. But the whole timid thing? Red flag, man. He's pulling a Timberlake.

Sheen dings Taco Bell: 'Where else do you go when you are hammered?'

This might not actually count as news, but Charlie Sheen got wasted and wandered through a Taco Bell drive-through on foot, chatting amiably with customers waiting in their cars.

One customer got the whole thing on camera and posted it to YouTube in a clip that features Sheen offering, "Sorry, I'm so f---ing hammered." The actor's very patient rep, Jeff Ballard, tells E! News that Sheen was in fact drunk — and being chauffeured around at the time — and that the incident happened last week while he was on hiatus from his Anger Management sitcom.

"Where else do you go when you are hammered?" Ballard offers.

Biebs to be on the hot seat again regarding Gomez

It's too bad Justin Bieber had such a terrible time during his last videotaped deposition in connection with his paparazzi assault case, because the pop star is going to have to do it all over again.

A judge has ordered Bieber back for further interrogation due to his refusal to answer questions related to on-again, off-again girlfriend Selena Gomez, according to TMZ.

Bieber will be questioned by the same lawyer who riled him so back in March, prompt-

In a wine rut? Do you keep pouring the same old pinot grigio or merlot? Well, it's time to start drinking outside the box and experiment with a new grape.

While there are hundreds of berries in the naked vineyard, a number are just shy of mass market popularity, which makes them ripe for discovery.

I'm thinking white fruit like verdejo and grüner veltliner, and reds like grenache (a.k.a. gamacha) and tempranillo.

Tempranillo is arguably wine's most stealth grape, having slipped under the radar of most Canadian consumers for decades.

A superstar in its native Spain, if you've had a red from its Rioja region you may have a taste for it.

Campo Viejo's 2011 Tempranillo ($14.45 - $19.79) used to be called Crianza (a nod to the juice having spent at least one year aging in oak barrels). Smooth and medium-bodied, it shows classic red berry and cherry flavours along with a lingering impression of cedar, spice and leather. Try with grilled burgers, paella and meat-laden pizzas. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

A chip off the Lego block. Builder-size version of toy brick under construction Lego bricks are great for building toy houses, but one company has taken things a step further by modelling a new "smart brick" on the toy.

The brainchild of Kite Bricks, Smart Bricks look almost exactly like large-scale Lego bricks, with raised knobs along the top that slot into grooves in the bottom of other bricks which allow them to snap together.

Currently in the prototype phase, Kite Bricks is working on launching the product officially, but the group has ambitious plans for the concept.

"While we anticipate choosing certain markets for initial block penetration, we do believe that the block will find acceptance throughout the world," the group explains on its website. AFP

Oh, snap

The bricks are made from high-strength concrete, held in place by adhesive rather than mortar, and reinforced by steel bars if necessary.

- They feature unique thermal properties which the company claims could make them more energy efficient.
- In addition, the bricks could create opportunities for faster and cheaper construction, shaving up to 50 per cent of building costs, the company says.

CFL. Edmonton alone atop West Division with 4-0 record after defence dominates in Winnipeg

It was a tough night for both quarterbacks, but Mike Reilly and the Edmonton Eskimos still claimed sole possession of first place in the CFL West with a commanding 26-3 win over Drew Willy and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers on Thursday night.

Both quarterbacks were sacked four times each but Willy had trouble even getting a first down until late in the first half when, down 10-0, he got close enough for Liram Hajrullahu to connect for a field goal.

Despite three sacks in that half alone, Reilly managed a couple of drives that ended in Grant Shaw field goals. Shaw added another two more in the fourth quarter.

But Edmonton's only touchdown in almost 50 minutes of football came from the defence on a first-quarter interception, carried in by former Bomber bad boy Odell Willis.

Reilly finally connected with A.J. Guyton with a 13-yard throw to make it 20-3 with about 10 minutes left in the game for the first touchdown by the offence.

The Eskimos are now 4-0 while Winnipeg falls to 3-1.

The crowd at Investors Group Field also topped 30,000 for the first time this season with 30,976 in attendance.

Willis, who now holds down an end on Edmonton's defensive line, intercepted Willy to score Edmonton's first touchdown just over six minutes into the game.

Willy completed just six of 16 passes in the first half but he managed 94 yards, thanks to Clarence Denmark's 50-yard catch.

The Bombers had better possession numbers in the third quarter but still couldn't translate that into points and they didn't managed a first down in the fourth. Penalties hurt them again although Edmonton also suffered in that regard, taking almost twice as many.

Willy finished completing 14 of 27 passes for 180 yards.

Reilly was slightly better going 18-for-31 for 192 yards.

Rory looking to end unfortunate Fridays

Golf. 'Boy Wonder' must prove he can follow up strong at British Open; Tiger shows vintage form to end opening round

Rory McIlroy had everything go his way Thursday in the British Open.

A lovely summer day in England with abundant sunshine and minimal wind allowed him to attack Royal Liverpool. He made half his six birdies on the par 5s and kept bogeys off his card. And on the day Tiger Woods made a promising return, McIlroy took the lead with a 6-under 66, his best score in nearly two years at a major.

Now if he can only find a way to get to the weekend.

McIlroy either set himself up for a good run at the claret jug or another dose of Friday failures. In what already has been an unusual year for golf, no trend is more mysterious than Boy Wonder going overnight from awesome to awful.

Six times in his past eight tournaments, he has had a nine-hole score of 40 or higher on Friday that has taken him out of the mix.

"It's not like I've shot good scores in first rounds and haven't backed them up before," McIlroy said. "I'm used to doing that. I just haven't done it recently. We'll see what tomorrow brings and what weather it is and try and handle it as best I can.

"Hopefully it's just one of those things and I'm able to turn it around tomorrow."

Woods also would like to keep moving in the right direction. He got off to a troubling start with two quick bogeys, nearly made another one on the fourth hole, and then looked like a 14-time major champion when he ran off five birdies in six holes toward the end of his round for a 69.

Not bad for a guy who had back surgery March 31, who started taking full swings only a month ago and who had not played in a major in 11 months.

"It felt good to be back out there competing again," Woods said.

World No. 1 Adam Scott finished with a 68, but was the only player in the top 10 who played in the afternoon when the wind made Hoylake tougher. Scott was slowed only by two bogeys on the back nine.

World Cup. Ref reveals Kramer was disoriented

Germany midfielder Christoph Kramer was disoriented and confused after taking a heavy blow to the head early in the World Cup final, according to the match's referee.

"Shortly after the blow, Kramer came to me asking 'Ref, is this the final?'" Nicola Rizzoli told the Gazzetta dello Sport on Thursday. "I thought he was joking and made him repeat the question and then he said, 'I need to know if this is really the final.' When I said, 'Yes,' he concluded, 'Thanks, it was important to know that.'"

Rizzoli said he let Germany midfielder Bastian Schweinsteiger know about the exchange during Sunday's game but Kramer continued playing

J.P. set to return to Rogers Centre

The Texas Rangers have recalled opening day catcher J.P. Arencibia from Triple-A Round Rock and may use the

You are in a romantic mood and that's good. The only danger is that you will put the object of your affection on too high a pedestal and feel devastated when they tumble.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

A loved one will ask you to cover up for them today and you'll be happy to do so. You don't want to see them get hurt but shouldn't they be learning from their own mistakes?

♓ Pisces

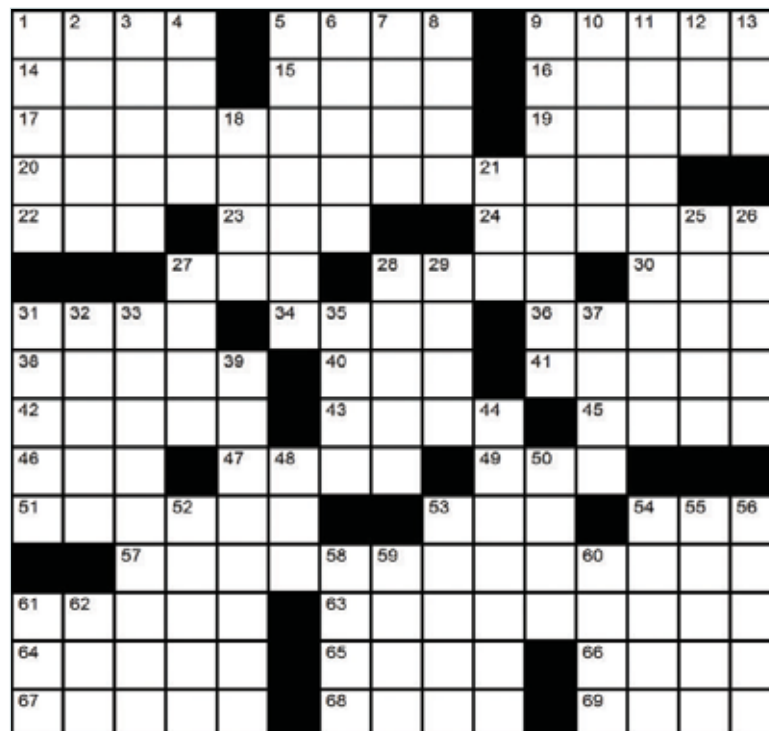

Feb. 20 - March 20

You will feel affectionate today. It won't last, but while it does see how many good deeds you can do for loved ones.
